Transfer of Copyright by Contributors to PCI

It is the policy of PCI to safeguard all author-contributed works by copyrighting them in the name of PCI. To do so, PCI must obtain a written transfer of copyright ownership from contributing authors (for jointly authored works, it is permissible to have one author sign as authorized agent for the others). The assignment of copyright will allow PCI to publish and reprint your work and to continue making arrangements for the various abstracting, indexing, copying, translating, and other services. These services are essential to the continued dissemination of publications of PCI and the information available through PCI. Therefore, PCI requests the signature of all the authors. The authors warrant and represent that they are all of the authors work identified above, and they are the sole owners of the work and of the copyright pertaining to it, that they have not transferred the ownership of the work or of the copyright in the work or any interest therein or any part thereof to any other person or entity. The work is the original creation of the authors and is not copied from any other work, except for the portions that are clearly indicated by credits contained therein. No royalties or other amounts shall be payable by PCI for use of these materials.

The copyright to the article identified above including, without limitation, any photographs, charts, illustrations, or graphs contained therein (but excepting any portions identified as being used with the consent of others) is hereby transferred to PCI (for government employees this provision applies only to the extent which copyright is transferable) effective upon receipt of this work. In consideration of agreement to publish the work if approved after review within at least 24 months of this assignment, authors hereby assign exclusively to PCI the copyright pertaining to the work. This includes, but is not limited to, the world-wide right to publish the work, to reproduce it, and to disseminate it, either alone, collectively with other works, in excerpts from the work or in whatever fashion PCI deems appropriate (including print, electronic, CD-ROM, Internet, or any other form now known or hereafter developed). The authors reserve the following: all proprietary rights other than copyright such as patent rights and the right to use all or part of this work in future works of their own such as lectures, reviews, personal websites, text books, etc. For jointly authored works, all joint authors should sign, or one of the authors should sign as authorized agent for the others.
