Molin Sioux Falls, Inc. Acquires the Assets of Gage Brothers, Expanding Precast Reach and Capabilities Across the Upper Midwest

Lino Lakes, MN & Sioux Falls, SD – January 5, 2026

Molin Sioux Falls, Inc. ("Molin") has acquired the assets of Gage Brothers Concrete Products ("Gage"), a Sioux Falls-based producer of precast concrete. Molin Sioux Falls, Inc. is a new entity formed under Molin Holdings, Inc. The new organization will offer a broader geographic footprint and deeper expertise across structural and architectural precast solutions, helping architects, contractors, and owners achieve high-performing, efficient, and design-forward projects across the upper Midwest and beyond.

"Leveraging the capabilities of both locations makes sense strategically to better serve our customers and the communities we help build," said Dan Bible, President & CEO of Molin. "Together we'll bring single-source design, manufacturing, and installation to more markets, with the reliability and craftsmanship our customers expect."

Shared Legacy of Innovation

Molin Concrete Products and the former Gage Brothers share a legacy that spans well over a century, with both companies deeply rooted in the Upper Midwest and recognized for their contributions to precast innovation.

Molin, founded in 1897 in Minnesota, grew from a regional supplier into a full-service precast provider, known for its ability to design, manufacture, and install structural and architectural systems from its state-of-the-art facilities in Lino Lakes and Ramsey. Gage Brothers, established in 1915 in Sioux Falls, South Dakota, became synonymous with craftsmanship and forward-thinking solutions, particularly through its highly automated 200,000-sq-ft precast facility that opened in 2019.

Despite their independent paths, the two companies share a remarkable alignment: both grew from regional roots into nationally recognized precast leaders, both have consistently invested in advanced facilities and technologies to serve their clients better, and both have focused on building lasting relationships grounded in reliability and innovation.
